The Vineyard

A portion of this 19-hectare site abuts the ABTSBERG and shares many of its characteristics, including soil composition and orientation. Toward the rear, however, the site is ringed by the Grüneberg forest and tends to be both cooler and flatter. Devonian slate is predominant here, despite the soil's slight reddish hue. In the past, these wines were sometimes considered the little brother to bottles from the ABTSBERG. Yet as climatic conditions have shifted in recent years, these Rieslings have achieved a remarkable glory entirely their own. Wines from the HERRENBERG are known for aging beautifully, even over decades. Both Riesling and Pinot Blanc are cultivated here.

Tasting Notes

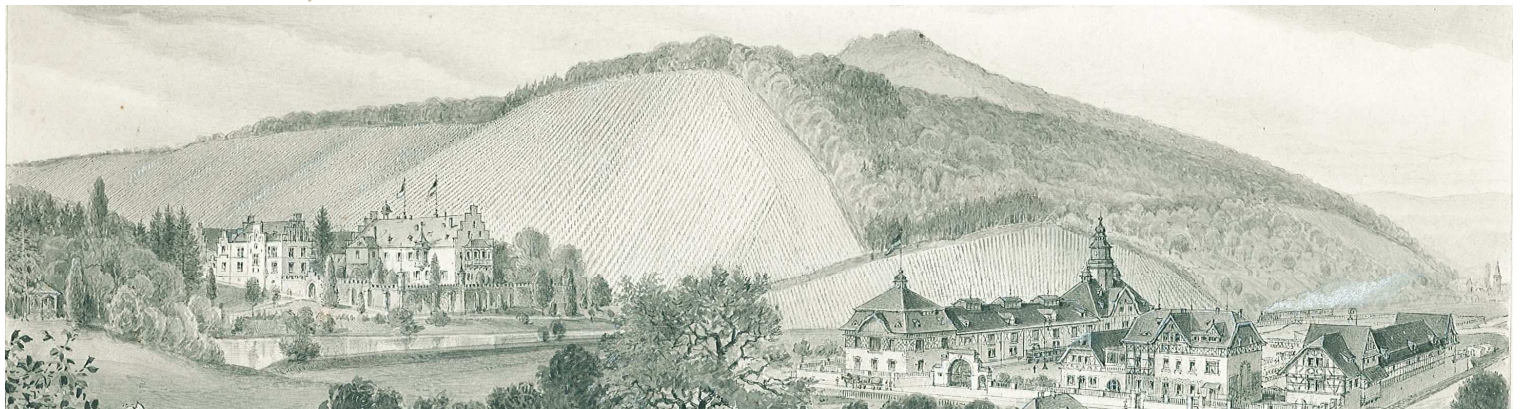

A very noble Spätlese with a high residual sugar content. Complex combination of yellow fruit flavours, cassis, and the famous slate spice. Juicy with delicate acidity and a meaty texture.

Food Pairing

Goes well with desserts
